Redefining Intermodal Trucking Logistics

ROADLINK USA ANNOUNCES EXECUTIVE APPOINTMENTS

Ronald T. Sorrow to Become Vice Chairman; Chris Munro Named President and CEO

BETHLEHEM, Pennsylvania -- January 23, 2007 -- RoadLink USA, Inc., the premier North American provider of intermodal trucking and related logistics services, today announced that Ronald T. Sorrow has been named Vice Chairman and Chris Munro has been named President and Chief Executive Officer, effective immediately.

Sorrow, who was the leader of the original founding management team of RoadLink USA and has served as Chief Executive Officer of the Company for the past six years, was instrumental in the sale of RoadLink to Fenway Partners, a New York-based private equity firm with a significant transportation and logistics-focused practice, in September 2006. As Vice Chairman, Sorrow will leverage his 35 years of senior-level transportation and logistics experience to concentrate on growth strategies, key customer relationships, and industry-wide matters for RoadLink.

With an extensive background in global logistics and supply chain management, Munro joins RoadLink USA from Linfox, a $1 billion Australian-based logistics and supply chain management company operating throughout Asia, where he served as Chief Executive Officer. At Linfox, Munro led the company's rapid expansion and acquisition initiatives while opening major new operations, with a new international leadership team, in key Asian markets. A native of Scotland, he has also served in senior positions with Exel Logistics in Europe and the United States.

John Anderson, Chairman of RoadLink USA, said, "We are very pleased to be able to combine the experience and leadership skills that Ron and Chris possess to accelerate the growth and service diversification strategies we have in place for RoadLink. Combined with the financial and strategic management resources we have available through Fenway Partners, we are in an excellent position to expand RoadLink's leadership position."

"I am thrilled to be joining RoadLink at such an exciting time in the Company's continued growth and development," Munro stated. "With its coast-to-coast scale, advanced technology and focus on customer service, RoadLink is uniquely positioned to remain at the forefront of its fast-growing sector of the transportation industry. I look forward to working with John, Ron and the rest of the RoadLink and Fenway teams to realize the Company's tremendous potential."

Marc Kramer, a Fenway Managing Director and head of Fenway's transportation practice, added, "Since our investment in RoadLink in September 2006, we have worked very closely with the management team to explore opportunities to build on RoadLink's franchise by extending its functionality, further enhancing customer service and expanding the Company's geographic presence. We are confident that John, Ron and Chris are the ideal team to take the Company to the next level of operational excellence and financial performance."

Fenway Partners' other investments in the transportation and logistics space include transportation and logistics provider Greatwide Logistics Services and expedited ground transportation provider Panther Expedited Services.
